Nixon Reassures NATO Partners

Eisenhower Operation Successful

'Terrible Risk' Because Of Age, Doctor Declares

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency stomach surgery on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, complicated by his age and repeated heart attacks, was pronounced successful today by a team of Army doctors.

A report issued at Walter Reed Army Hospital shortly after midnight omitted any indication of the 78-year-old five-star general's chances for recovery. But use of the word "successfully" was taken to mean that Eisenhower, who six months ago had appeared near death, was not in imminent danger.

President Nixon, in Brussels on the first stop of his five-nation Western European tour, was described as "pleased" with the report. Aides said he was being kept constantly informed of the condition of the man whom he served as vice president for eight years.

The two-hour and 20-minute operation, performed by a seven-member surgical team, had been accepted "with equanimity" by Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie. She had rushed to the hospital earlier Sunday from their farm home in Gettysburg, Pa.

Eisenhower also had been visited by his son John and his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, before undergoing the delicate operation that was described by one authority as a "terrible risk" for a man of his age and medical history.

DELAY DECISION

The condition was first reported Saturday night, but the decision to operate was not announced until shortly before 8 p.m. Sunday.

It was 4½ hours later that Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Hughes Jr., commanding officer of the hospital where Eisenhower has been bedridden in the third-floor presidential suite since May, went before newsmen to say: "Gen. Eisenhower underwent surgery for intestinal obstruction this evening. The procedure began at 9:10 p.m. and terminated successfully at 11:30 p.m. The obstruction was found to be due to two large adhesive bands resulting from previous surgery."

Eisenhower's doctors said the

They'll Be In On Talks With Soviets

It's First Stop On Eight-Day European Tour

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Nixon told America's European allies today that he later will "enter into negotiations with the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues," and he promised to consult with them both before and during the talks.

Nixon, in a speech to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization during the first stop of his eight-day European trip, did not hedge about prospects for eventual Soviet-American talks. He said there will be negotiations "in due course, and with proper preparation."

The President made no mention of two crises of paramount concern to the Atlantic allies: the new dispute between the British and French governments, and the possibility of an East-West confrontation in Berlin.

Instead, with the aim of revitalizing the Atlantic alliance, he emphasized a pledge that "the United States is determined to listen with new attentiveness to its NATO partners."

To underscore this policy declaration, he said that because American-Soviet talks would directly affect the nations of Western Europe, the United States will approach Moscow "on the basis of full consultation and cooperation with our allies, because we recognize that the chances for successful negotiations depend on our unity."

He went on: "I realize that this course has not always been followed in the past. But I pledge to you today that in any negotiations directly affecting the interest of the NATO nations, there will be full and genuine consultation before and during those negotiations."

Nixon said he knew the allies had felt "that too often the United States talked at its partners instead of with them, or merely informed them of decisions after they were made instead of consulting with them before deciding."

NEW ATTENTIVENESS
"The United States is determined to listen with a new attentiveness to its NATO partners," he declared, "not only because they have a right to be heard but because we want their ideas. And I believe we have a right to expect that consultation shall be a two-way street."

Summarizing the approach he wants to take in his European meetings, he said: "I have come for work, not for ceremony; to inquire, not to insist; to consult, not to convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope will be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked if Nixon had discussed with Belgian officials the latest chill in British-French relations. He replied: "I don't have any information on that."

Nixon flies to London tonight for talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson, and after visits to Bonn, West Berlin and Rome will go to Paris Friday to meet with President Charles de Gaulle.

EAR TO VIETNAM
Ziegler said Nixon, during his 10,500-mile trip is keeping closely abreast of latest reports from South Vietnam, where a new wave of enemy attacks has been launched, apparently to bolster the Communist position at the Paris peace talks.

Nixon, discussing the country-wide rocket and mortar attacks Sunday, indicated to newsmen during his flight from Washington that in some circumstances such assaults could result in an American countermove.

White House sources said the President had ordered a careful study of the attacks, one purpose of which was to determine if they were a prelude to a larger offensive.

Israeli Attack In Syria Biggest Since 1967 War

By Associated Press

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes struck in force across the Syrian cease-fire line today for the first time since the 1967 war, bombed two Arab guerrilla bases and engaged in dogfights with Syrian MIGs near Damascus.

Israel claimed its planes returned unharmed after shooting down one Syrian MIG17. Damascus radio said three Israeli jets and two Syrian fighters were shot down. Israel did not announce how many Israeli planes made the raid, but a spokesman said the Syrians sent up about 10 or 12 MIG17s and MIG21s. This announcement and broadcasts from Damascus indicated it may have been the biggest Arab-Israeli air clash since the 1967 war.

The cease-fire line between Israel and Syria had been relatively quiet since the June 1967 war, but the Israeli army said the raid was in retaliation for a sharp increase in guerrilla attacks along the border since Jan. 20, including the machine gunning of a civilian bus Sunday.

The army said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in 12 incidents of mining and shooting in the occupied Golan Heights, which Israel captured from Syria in the six-day war.

A spokesman said the Israeli planes bombed two locations—Malsalun, on the main Beirut-Damascus highway 10 miles west of the Syrian capital, and El Hamme, on the Syrian-Lebanese border. He said El Hamme was the headquarters of the Al Fatah commando organization for both Syria and Lebanon, from which "they are sent to carry out sabotage actions against Israel."

The Israeli army claimed guerrillas from El Hamme fired on a bus carrying 50 laborers Sunday and wounded one.

The spokesman charged El Hamme is a staging area for guerrillas returning from training in Egypt, Algeria and Communist China, from which "they are sent to carry out sabotage actions against Israel."

Syrian exiles in Lebanon said El Hamme is also the site of Syria's largest munitions plant. A Syrian army communique broadcast by Damascus radio claimed the attack was against civilian targets in Malsalun and El Hamme. It said 20 civilians were wounded, including a Lebanese doctor and a young girl traveling to Damascus.

AP correspondent Farouk Nassar reported from Damascus that planes could be seen flying high over the Syrian capital, and the sound of gunfire, explosions and the sound of battle.

The Syrian army communique reported air battles went on for nearly two hours. "The enemy planes tried to attack civilian installations in the area of El Hamme and Malsalun, but our anti-aircraft batteries and fighter planes engaged them in battle and prevented them carrying out their mission," the communique said.

An Israeli general staff officer told newsmen several hundred guerrillas were believed to be in the Al Fatah bases and he estimated damage inflicted by the bombing was "quite serious." He said the Israeli jets strafed and bombed, adding: "I don't think napalm was used."

Persons in Kiryat Shmoneh, the nearest Israeli settlement to the targets, reported seeing many Israeli warplanes "coming and going."

Balloting On School Issues High

Voting was reported running heavy late this morning in four Van Buren and Allegan county school districts, holding special elections.

Hartford and Lawrence districts, holding a merger election, had a total of 189 voters, including 109 at Lawrence and 80 at Hartford.

At Bangor, 93 persons had voted on a $1.6 million bonding issue and 5-mill tax proposal. At Fennville, 188 votes had been cast on a 5-mill tax proposal.

U.S. Must Reply To Red Attack

Volleys Of Rockets Hit 125 Cities

By FRID S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The enemy bombardment of South Vietnamese cities is expected to bring U.S. recommendations for some kind of retaliation against North Vietnam, perhaps selective resumption of bombing.

It is known that military officials regard the widespread shelling, and use of rockets and mortars as a breach of understandings under which the United States agreed to stop all bombing of the North last Oct. 31.

But pending a presidential decision, the Pentagon declined all comment and officials refused to discuss the situation.

NO HASTY ACTION

The keynote to the U.S. attitude probably was sounded by a Nixon administration source now in Europe who said Sunday that authorities were "not going to do anything precipitously."

Before leaving for his European trip, President Nixon said the "key word is shelling," because if this has happened "it requires some action on our part."

Reports from Vietnam tell of shelling and other bombardment of more than 125 cities, towns and allied bases, including volleys of rockets fired into Saigon, as well as some ground attacks.

Action could range all the way from stern U.S. warnings to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong about the possible breakdown of the Paris peace talks to resumed bombing of North Vietnam on the scale before halt, or on a larger scale.

With U.S. public opinion in mind, Nixon can hardly dismiss the offensive, although he could play down its importance.

If he moved to resume the bombing, he would risk a break off in the Paris peace talks.

That could well put the war back where it was last year—something the new president almost certainly wants to avoid.

Government sources speculated that the city bombardment was timed to embarrass Nixon as he opens his much heralded visit to European capitals.

Also, some officials believe the enemy move is designed to disrupt the pacification program and to try to demonstrate that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong still represent a tough military problem in South Vietnam.

U.S. NOT WORRIED

Military men here sound confident that any concerted Vietnamese and Viet Cong ground offensive would be crushed with heavy enemy casualties.

At the time the bombing was halted high ranking U.S. officials made it clear that the North Vietnamese understood that in exchange they were not to "abuse" the demilitarized zone or to shell South Vietnamese communities.

"We made it clear to them that the peace talks could go on only so long as they observed the DMZ and refrain from shelling the cities," one ranking official said the night the bombing of North Vietnam was ordered stopped.

Almost from the beginning of the U.S. bombing halt, the American command in Saigon reported repeated incidents in the DMZ area, including North Vietnamese artillery and machine gun attacks on allied positions and planes.

Violation Is Charged

SOUTH HAVEN — A Holland man was held by state police here for violation of United States immigration laws during the weekend.

Troopers said they arrested Leopolda Lujan, 22, Chihuahua, Mexico, presently living at route 4, Holland, Sunday and are holding him for immigration authorities. They said they halted a driver in Lee township, Allegan county, for making an improper left turn which led to the arrest.

One Arrest Just Leads To Another

Little things snowball.

Two Benton Harbor police officers stopped a car Sunday because the license plates had been wired on. Their intent was to write a traffic summons on an improperly secured license plate.

They issued the ticket to William R. Harrison, 19, of Michigan City, Ind., and then arrested him when he was unable to produce a driver's license and for being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages when they found beer in the car.

Companion Janette E. Harrison, 18, of Michigan City, was also arrested for being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages. And a second passenger, Dennis Nosek, 25, of Chicago, was arrested for contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Arresting officers Roger Spencer and Harry Peek called for the paddy wagon to return the three to the police station. While waiting, they searched Nosek and found a small bag of substance. Nosek was arrested on an additional charge of possessing marijuana.

Other commissioners named to two-year terms ending Dec. 31, 1970 are Robert F. King of Alhambra, Leonard H. Thomson of Grosse Pointe Farms; Charles A. Boyer, Manistee; and Fred O. Rouse, Jr., of St. Clair. The appointments are subject to senate confirmation.

Watervliet Spots Geese Headed North

Lawrence Dienes of Watervliet said Saturday it was a welcome sight — about 100 geese flying north in perfect formation. Dienes said he usually sees northbound geese in March and perhaps it means an early spring.

He explained he is not authorized on migratory but has more than cursory interest because goose hunting at the Fennville state game area is his favorite fall sport.

They Seem To Forget

Juliet Was A Boy

LBJ's tragic flaw may have started something in his party that's catching. The Young Democrats of Lake Michigan College stand in danger of developing a credibility gap.

It's highly unlikely that William Shakespeare would have included an even slightly nude sex scene in his own production of "Romeo and Juliet." For in the Great Bard's day, the role of Juliet was played by a boy.

LMC's Young Democrats declared Benton Harbor's State Theatre "insulted . . . the integrity of William Shakespeare" because it deleted a bedroom scene when it showed the film "Romeo and Juliet" to grade and high school audiences.

As far as the wedding night scene itself is concerned, youngsters can find sexier bits in plenty of TV commercials. Adults who demanded the deletion may be making "Much Ado About Nothing." But in claiming that the deletion distorts Shakespeare, the LMC Democrats are reminiscent of the "snapper-up of unconsidered trifles" in "The Winter's Tale"—also a Shakespeare production.

The Young Democrats should have taken their Shakespeare course more seriously. There were no actresses on the London stage when Shakespeare wrote. Boys played the parts of women, as they had done in all English plays for hundreds of years. The boys took great pains to make their masquerades convincing. They could hardly have done that nude.

It could be that if Shakespeare were alive today, he'd produce "Romeo and Juliet" with some torrid bed-wrestling to heighten audience reaction to the intensity of emotion between this "star crossed" pair of young lovers. But it's extremely doubtful he would have chosen to do so in his own day.

Stage props and scenery were severely limited in Shakespeare's time. The most colorful part of an Elizabethan production was the amazingly rich and colorful costumery. Probably no producer would have sacrificed this vivid attraction for the relative drabness of nude coupling that was fairly commonplace on the greens and in the taverns of Elizabeth's rollicking kingdom.

The Young Democrats do bring up a rather general topic that's much discussed these days—whether the grunts, groans and skin tones of sex have a proper place in novels, the stage and films. Both writers and audiences describe themselves by their answers.

A good author or playwright doesn't need hot sex to capture and retain the attention of an audience, or to convey an emotion or message. Nor does a physically able, mentally adjusted human being require vicarious eroticism by way of entertainment.

In other words, Kids, for mature people, sex is not a spectator sport.

Renewing Diplomatic

Ties With The Vatican

President Nixon has taken pains to separate his visit to Rome from his visit to the Roman enclave of Vatican City. It would have been convenient to meet with Italian government leaders and with the Pope on the same stopover. Instead, a three-day stay in Paris will come between Nixon's two trips to Rome.

It is conceivable that the President's audience with the Pope will lead to more formal relations between the United States and the Holy See. It has been almost 20 years since Washington had an emissary assigned to the Vatican. The time may be ripe to re-establish diplomatic contact.

Although anti-Catholicism was rampant in this county at the time, the United States had a charge d'affaires in Rome from 1848 to 1867. Horace Greeley and others, encouraged by the initial liberalism of Pius IX, urged President Polk to establish diplomatic relations with the Papal States. This was done, but only after prolonged and bitter debate in Congress.

Pius turned increasingly reactionary as he came in conflict with the Italian unification movement. Congress therefore refused in 1867 to renew the appropriation for the legation at Rome. It was argued that the original reasons for establishing the mission, principally to encourage the Pope's liberal policies, were no longer valid.

Almost 75 years passed before Washington gave thought to re-establishing official contact with the Vatican. In a Christmas 1939 message to Pius XII, President

Roosevelt said that "It would give me great satisfaction to send to you my personal representative in order that our parallel endeavors for peace and the alleviation of suffering may be assisted."

Myron C. Taylor, an Episcopalian and a former board chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was subsequently sent to Rome as the President's emissary. He stayed there, except for several months after Roosevelt's death, until his resignation in January 1950.

In October 1951, President Truman nominated Gen. Mark W. Clark, an Episcopalian, to be a fully accredited U.S. ambassador to Vatican City. This proposal aroused such determined opposition in Congress that Clark asked that his name be withdrawn.

The issue of John F. Kennedy's Catholicism in the 1960 presidential election campaign led to some debate on whether U.S.-Vatican ties should be re-established. Kennedy declared that he was "opposed to it, and said so long ago." He felt that "Whatever advantages it might have in Rome, and I'm not convinced of these, they would be more than offset by the divisive effect at home."

Nevertheless, there are certain advantages in having diplomatic representation at the Holy See. The Vatican, it is said, knows more about what is going on in Eastern Europe and Latin America, including Cuba, than perhaps even the U.S. State Department. Information on political as well as spiritual matters filters into the Vatican from all parts of the world through the well organized church hierarchy.

Diplomatic recognition, moreover, is not the same thing as a religious concordat. The Pope functions as a chief of state as well as spiritual leader. It could be that these arguments in favor of diplomatic recognition would prove more persuasive today than in 1960.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Parking 'Fine' Costs $2,500

Late for an appointment, George hastily parked his car in a pedestrian crosswalk. The possibility of a fine for illegal parking was not enough to deter him.

But to his dismay, the "fine" turned out to be $2,500. A pedestrian, forced to detour around his parked car, was knocked down by a passing truck—and George was held legally liable for the accident.

BLOCKED VIEW

That is not an isolated case. Generally speaking, whenever you park your car illegally, you can be held responsible for all the foreseeable consequences. This may include not only injuries to pedestrians but even collisions between two other cars.

For example:

When two cars collided at an intersection, a court put the blame on a truck driver who had parked too close to the corner—blocking the STOP sign from view. An oncoming motorist, who had no reason to expect a stop street, had driven squarely into the path of another car.

In fact, you run the risk of liability whenever you stop your car in an improper manner, even if you are not violating a specific parking ordinance. Take this situation:

A motorist on the highway, catching sight of some deer in a meadow, stopped to watch. But he neglected to pull off the road first. As a result, there was a chain collision of cars behind him. Finding the man liable, the court said:

NO CASUAL CONNECTION

"The right of a motorist to enjoy the beauties of nature does not warrant stopping his automobile in the midst of traffic to satisfy his artistic and poetic proclivities."

On the other hand, the motorist who stops improperly is not responsible if there is casual connection between his stopping and the accident that follows.

Thus, a driver who had parked in a no-parking zone was held not to blame when a second car ploughed into him from the rear. It seems the second man had been driving with his eyes cast downward, scanning the floor for a fallen cigarette.

The court pointed out that, even if the first car had stopped lawfully—say, because of traffic—the collision would have occurred just the same.

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking Of Your Health

I really am scared and don't know how to word this letter. That is why I'm writing to you and am ashamed to ask my own doctor. Where does the menstrual blood go after a hysterectomy operation? Can it cause a tumor or adhesions that later cause trouble?

Mrs. J. P., Pennsylvania

Dear Mrs. P.: There never should be any shame about the fact that you do not completely understand the way a body functions. Doctors do not expect their patients to know anatomy and physiology. They completely understand their patient's confusion.

If one does not completely understand the body in health or in illness, one naturally becomes fearful. During menstruation the inner lining of the uterus, or the womb, sheds itself about every twenty-eight days.

When the uterus is removed by the operation known as a hysterectomy, there is no longer any surface from which menstrual bleeding can occur. After such surgery artificial change of life sets in, especially when ovaries are removed at the same time.

Now that you understand there is no internal or external menstrual bleeding after a hysterectomy, you can be assured that tumors and adhesions cannot occur because of this.

I must repeat that you might have spared yourself long delayed relief from anxiety if you had been able to ask your physician the simple question without any reservations, or feeling of shame.

My sixteen-month-old baby weighs thirty-four pounds. Since he has gained so much weight, I have started to get veins on my legs which make them sting and throb. I am very slender and want to know how to prevent more veins and how to get these to disappear.

Mrs. J. P., Pennsylvania

Dear Mrs. P.: One of the penalties for overfeeding and overstuffing a child is such a tremendous gain of weight. There really is no healthy reason why young children should be thought to be flourishing only when they are fat and bulky. I doubt that your baby's weight is responsible for the veins of your legs. Small varicose veins appear in a great many women following pregnancy.

Carrying a heavy child is a burden and probably exaggerates the vein problem you have. How this is treated depends entirely on the nature and extent of the varicose veins, which can only be established by your doctor through special studies. If there are extensive and deep-vein varicosities, surgery may be the method of choice. When the condition is less severe the veins are sometimes injected, bringing relief from the tingling or throbbing sensation. The use of supporting stockings is often beneficial. May I suggest that while your veins are being treated, your little fellow be started on a rigid but nourishing diet. You both will benefit.

Opening lead—two of hearts.

I have always been a strong subscriber to the theory that long, involved, bidding sequences, regardless of how scientifically conducted, too often produce the wrong final contract.

It seems to me that the more bids a partnership makes, the more likely it is that one player or the other will make a mistake. In most hands, brevity is the backbone of good bidding.

Today's hand occurred in the 1967 Trials. The deal was played at five tables, but at only one of them was the proper contract of seven diamonds reached.

At one table North-South stopped at six no-trump after the lengthy sequence shown and made seven for a score of 1,020 points. Something obviously went wrong, even though North-South were using a highly refined version of the Stayman convention.

At three other tables the final contract was six diamonds, made with an overtrick for 940 points. One typical auction (by a pair using inverted minor raises) went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♦	Pass	2♦
Pass	2♦	Pass	3♦
Pass	3NT	Pass	4♦
Pass	6♦

At the fifth table, the grand slam in diamonds was reached in just four bids: The bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1NT	Pass	5NT
Pass	6♦	Pass	7♦

Mrs. Dorothy Hayden of Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., playing with this writer, opened with a no-trump. My five no-trump response was forcing to six and implied strong interest in a grand slam. Mrs. Hayden showed a maximum no-trump and a good suit by responding six diamonds, which I raised to seven. This was easily made for a score of 1,440 points.

Police Seeking Mother's Arrest

Benton Harbor youth officers placed three children in the custody of the Berrien juvenile court Saturday night after they found the three unattended in an apartment at 507 Edwards street.

The officers said today they were seeking a warrant for the mother, identified as Mrs. Reola Norwood, 28, charging her with child neglect.

The children include two boys, ages 6 and 4, and an 8-month-old girl. A fourth child, age 3, was reported staying in Marion, Mich.

Police said the children reported their mother left them with another person while going out earlier Saturday night with a man they named as "Joe." The other person, the children said, left soon after their mother had gone, according to police.

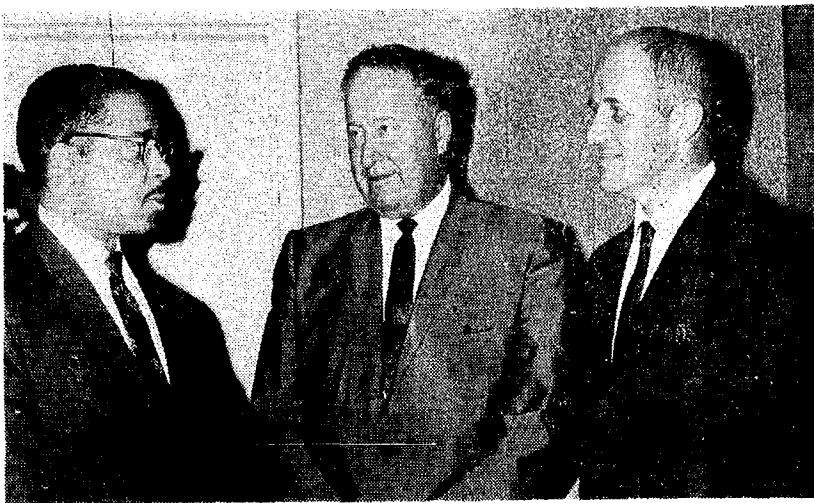

Police officer Tom Cassidy said he found the three after a neighbor in a nearby apartment telephoned headquarters regarding the youngsters.

Cassidy, in his report, said the apartment was dirty and strewn with trash which included empty whiskey and wine bottles and beer cans.

The only heat in the apartment was supplied by one burner on the kitchen stove and an inoperable refrigerator contained a lump of bacon and numerous bugs, Cassidy said.

Youth officer Bill Matthews, who was summoned by Cassidy, contacted Berrien juvenile court Officer Ronald Smith.

Mrs. Norwood's two sons were placed in the Berrien juvenile home and the 8-month-old girl was taken to the home of Berrien juvenile court Officer Tom Carnegie.

The club expects to meet monthly until April, then hold two summer meetings to settle on next winter's activities, Mrs. Olsen said.

Officers are Jerry Shoe-maker, president; George Smallbones, vice president; Mrs. Olsen, secretary; and Patrick Daly, treasurer. All are of the Sister Lakes area.

BH, SJ Police Asked To Trade Off On Jobs

A recommendation that teams of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph police officers trade places for a specified work period was made Sunday by Will Branscum, president of the Benton Harbor chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Branscum said, under the proposal, Benton Harbor would send Negro police officers to work in St. Joseph while white St. Joseph officers worked among Negroes in patrolling Benton Harbor. St. Joseph has no Negro police officers — and only a handful of Negro residents.

The NAACP president outlined the proposal at an NAACP session in the Blossom Acres community room where Howard L. Bibbs, chief of the public safety department in Royal Oak township spoke. Bibbs said police officials in all-white communities have been requesting Negro officers be sent in for patrol duty.

Benton Harbor police chief William McClaran and St. Joseph police chief Tom Gillespie who were present had no comment regarding the recommendation.

Branscum told the 35 persons present that he had outlined the proposal originally to a meeting of 80 law enforcement officers. He offered to work with the administrators in both cities to work out the details as well as help work on other mutual problems.

According to Branscum, he said he was proposing the plan because he understood the cities had worked out an agreement where officers could now cross the bridge to complete an apprehension.

Bibbs, pinching for Dow-

giac police chief George Grady, said the community, both black and white, must be able to work with the police department.

"If they can't work together, then who can," Bibbs stated. The head of a combined police-fire department in a township with 13,000 persons, Bibbs said he encountered the request for Negro patrolmen in all-white communities as a member of the civil rights committee of the police chiefs association. The chiefs in the white communities are asking for them, he said.

Bibbs said the white and black communities must help each other. If they don't, he said, all that has been built would be destroyed.

He called for understanding on the part of both people and the police of the others problems and needs.

Police Issue Warning About Illegal Passing

Drivers today are warned against passing cars by driving on the shoulder at the M-139 and Nickerson avenue crossing. Lt. Paul Mills of the Berrien county sheriff's department said Saturday that tickets are being issued. The law, he said, prohibits passing on the right if the car passing goes off the highway to do it.

According to Mills, through motorists are going around cars stopped to make left turns. He said both the sheriff's department and the Benton township police department are patrolling the intersection and are issuing tickets.

The passing problem, added Mills, has developed noticeably since the traffic light has been installed at the intersection.

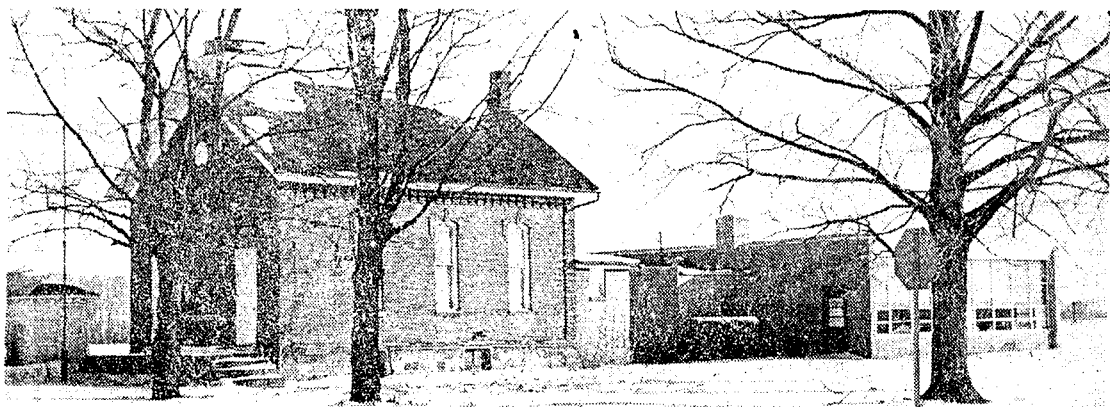

A bad accident could occur because of the passing, Mills said.

Early Discovery Can Save Cancer Patients

Researcher Speaks Here

Cancer of the skin is much more prevalent than cancer of the mouth but the simple fact that it is noticed accounts for its high rate of cure, Dr. Nathaniel H. Rowe, noted researcher said Saturday.

Dr. Rowe, professor of oral pathology at the University of Michigan, addressed a group of physicians, dentists and lay people at the kickoff session for the 1969 Cancer Crusade at a meeting at Holiday Inn, Benton Harbor.

$41,000 GOAL. Fred Reddell, Jr., 1969 Cancer Crusade chairman, announced the 1969 goal is $41,000 and said the amount was needed for research, care of victims and an intense educational program.

Dr. Rowe in his talk to the Cancer Society workers stressed the importance of education about the disease so that early detection can increase the chances of cure.

He said the attention a blemish on the outer skin receives leads the victim to find out why it doesn't heal and eventually to treatment. But he said oral cancer may lay hidden under the tongue and detection may come too late to effect a cure.

If through education more people would have periodic checkups, then cancer would be detected earlier, said Dr. Rowe. There would be greater chance for cures and the vast sums used in aiding cancer victims could be phased out, he added.

Dr. Rowe noted that while researchers still don't know what causes cancer in humans they have made amazing progress.

WORLD-WIDE SEARCH

He took his listeners to the jungles of South America, the villages of cities of India and even to the edge of the Arctic circle via slides as he related how researchers sought to find the causes of the disease which will claim one in three lives.

He told the crusade workers of the need to spread the word about the need for annual physical checkups, especially for the adult past 40.

Dr. Rowe said those that stop smoking will get a recovery bonus. For every year a former smoker abstains, he will get a year and a half of benefits offsetting the damage already done. He made the statement in answer to a question of why should a person stop smoking after they had been doing it for decades.

CANCER NOT HEREDITARY

He used the smoking habit to illustrate another factor about cancer. Cancer is not hereditary he said. But the same factors that cause cancer in a parent may be present to cause cancer in the child. If a father smokes it's usually a good bet that the son will too. And both may get cancer.

Dr. Rowe was greeted upon his arrival at Ross field by the Benton Harbor high school Madrigal singers who also sang at a press breakfast at Holiday Inn.

He was flown from his home in Ann Arbor and back late in the afternoon by Steve Hungate in a Cramer Aviation Center plane.

Watervliet
Man Loses
State PostPower Play By Detroiters Angers
Some Delegates

BATTLE CREEK — An east state power play ousted Harold Snyder of Watervliet as Michigan chairman of the American Independent party which he organized last year to promote George Wallace for president.

The election of James Hall of Warren as new state chairman of the party touched off a walkout of several county delegations to the Saturday state convention and left the party's future in doubt.

Snyder, at his home in Watervliet today, said he was not interested in any other post than the AIP chairmanship. He said he stayed in the running for the post but was ousted in "a little power play which they (the Detroit area delegations) worked up."

PARTY ORGANIZER

Although ousted as chairman of the state party which he had organized early in 1968 to back Wallace's third-party bid for president, Snyder said he still is interested in keeping the party functional.

"I do not propose that my people leave the party," Snyder said.

Delegations from Kalamazoo and Leelanau counties walked out of the convention hall Saturday to protest what is called the "undemocratic manner" in which the convention was run.

Delegate leaders from the two counties claimed delegates from most other Western Michigan counties joined the walkout but observers were unable to tell whether the claim were true.

Snyder said he believed the Berrien county delegation joined the walkout but he was talking with someone outside the convention hall and could not be sure.

FEARS CONFIRMED

Gale Aikens, a member of the Kalamazoo County delegation's executive committee, said his fear of convention domination by eastern Michigan interests was confirmed when Hall was elected chairman.

Aikens added he wasn't sure what the party's future will be. The sentiments were echoed Sunday by member of the Leelanau delegation.

American Independent party officers named in addition to Hall are Larry Lee, Lincoln Park, and John Santucci, Ypsilanti, vice chairman; Robert Miles, Howell, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Fox, Flint, treasurer.

Dies In Tub

DETROIT (AP) — Benjamin Salmon, 27, of Detroit, was shot Sunday by his wife Mary, 22, and staggered to the bathroom of their home in Detroit, where he died in the bathtub, Detroit police said.

RARE DOGS: Mrs. Dorothy Kelley and her 15-year-old son Jim have their hands full trying to pose their six Basenjis, an ancient breed of dog which originated in Egypt in the time of the Pharaohs. Basenjis do not bark, they make a sound similar to a combined howl and bark which fanciers call a yodel. The five puppies are about six weeks old. Mrs. Kelley obtained the mother of the puppies from Bawamba Kennels in Niles. The Kelleys and their six African barkless dogs live in a trailer at Leisure Living Trailer Court, 100 Niles avenue, Berrien Springs. Jim says it is a good thing the dogs don't bark. Living with them is "murder" even so, he says. (Oliphant photo)

Petitions Filed By Two
In Coloma City Races

COLOMA — Two more candidates have filed nominating petitions for four-year terms on the city commission.

Filing petitions were Norman Carrothers, an incumbent, and Martin Quigley, a newcomer to local politics.

Carrothers, who had previously announced he would not seek re-election, said he changed his mind because he feels he can be of service to the city.

He said, "After people began urging me to run, I gave the matter more thought. I feel the four years of experience I have had in the street department will help me get a lot of work done in the next four years."

The incumbent candidate lives at 355 South Paw Paw street. He is a native of Coloma and is a self-employed semi-retired carpenter. He is the father of six children.

Martin Quigley is also a native of Coloma. He resides at 165 Church street with his wife and two children. He is employed at Gast Manufacturing company in Benton Harbor.

Quigley said he is a candidate for election because he does not like all the adverse publicity Coloma received during the past two years. He said he feels he can stop this by bringing about better understanding and cooperation among the officials at city hall.

He said he would also work for street improvements to make Coloma a "nice little city."

Four positions on the city commission are up for election on April 7. In addition to Carrothers, terms of commissioners Fred Munchow, Jr., and Harold Bachman expire in April. Bachman has said he will not seek re-election. Munchow has already filed nominating petitions. The fourth seat was left vacant when commissioner Ervin LaGrow was named Mayor after Gust Anton was elected to the county board of supervisors.

The candidate who receives the least amount of votes among the top four vote getters will win the vacant seat for a two-year term.

In the meantime, they are guests in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cortright, Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Clawson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Weirne and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Heft.

Democrats Split On Parochiaid

EAST LANSING (AP) — State aid to private and parochial schools probably will be passed by the Legislature this session despite official disapproval by the Democratic party, observers agree.

The Democratic State Central Committee Saturday handed a defeat to Democratic House Speaker William Ryan of Detroit and several other Democratic legislators by coming out against the so-called parochiaid. Ryan had urged the committee to reject a resolution opposing the bill, saying the action would strike at "a basic right... the right to choose one's school."

But State Sen. Coleman A. Young, D-Detroit, who opposes the measure, said he expects it to be approved by the Legislature "unless there is a groundswell of opposition."

State Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, who supports the parochiaid measure, also said he thought the Democratic action would not have any effect on the outcome of the bill's legislative course.

Office-holders and party professionals frequently disagree on pending legislation, he noted.

OFFICERS ELECTED

In other action, the Democrats elected two new officers in an apparent effort to unify the party regulars and the dissident New Democratic Coalition.

The new officers, whose titles and duties were not outlined, are James Harrison of East Lansing and Zeline Richard of Detroit.

The party also called for liberalization of abortion laws in Michigan and disavowed "any and all action whereby the salaries of some (county) supervisors were set without a prior determination of their duties or at a level inconsistent with their duties."

Another resolution approved by the Democrats was one denouncing a Senate investigation headed by Robert Huber, R-Troy, aimed at probing activities on Michigan college campuses.

Police Chief Uses Mace On Man

Benton Harbor police chief William McClaran said he used the non-lethal chemical spray mace to subdue a man Sunday who hit him and another officer when they stopped to help a woman.

Arrested were Billy Joe Griffin, 23, on charges of drunk and disorderly and assault and battery, and Griffin's wife, Emma, 22, on charge of drunk and disorderly. Both reside at 406 Park road, Coloma.

Chief McClaran said he was driving his car on Main street Sunday noon when he saw a woman lying in the middle of the street and a man standing over her. The two were on Pipestone street, between Main and Wall streets.

McClaran identified himself as a police officer and offered his assistance. McClaran said he was told they didn't need assistance but he said he radioed for aid anyway.

A radio dispatcher Kenneth Ruff, who was off-duty arrived and he and McClaran began lifting the woman to place her in the cruiser.

McClaran said the man, at this point struck Ruff in the face and then swung at McClaran when McClaran went to Ruff's aid.

McClaran said the blow hit him on the shoulder.

Broken Water Pipe Floods BH Motel

The Milner Motor Hotel, 250 East Main street, had an indoor "swimming pool" for a few hours Saturday when a frozen water pipe broke and flooded the basement under the motel wing.

Benton Harbor firemen said they used their pump to pump enough of the water out of the basement so men could get to the water pipes and turn them off. The water was about six feet deep, they said.

Firemen also this weekend assisted two motorists who reported their cars on fire. A car driven by Harry Reynolds of 584 East Main street, caught on fire when gasoline leaked from the carburetor Saturday. The fire occurred in front of his home.

Firemen said a car driven by Larry Brown of 191 South McCord street had a hole burned in the floor mat by a dimmer switch that had shorted out.

Two Men Hospitalized In Crashes

CASSOPOLIS — Two men were hospitalized Sunday with injuries received in two separate one-car accidents in Cass county.

Injured were James E. Keen, 21, route 1 Dowagiac, who is reported today in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac; and Robert E. Purucker, 26, of 2619 South 21st street, Niles, who is listed in satisfactory condition at South Bend Memorial hospital.

Cass county sheriff's deputies reported that Keen's car was wrecked about 3:15 a.m. Sunday, on Rudy road, about a mile north of Dowagiac, shortly after a driver had eluded Dowagiac city police in a brief chase.

Dowagiac police said the chase began when officers tried to make an arrest for a traffic violation. Police said the driver eluded officers, who believe he was the crash victim.

Sheriff's officers said Keen lost control on a curve and his car skidded about 200 feet and flipped end over end several times. Keen was reported to have sustained a fractured right ankle, possible internal injuries and was in a state of shock.

NO CHARGES FILED

Police said no charges have been filed against Keen, pending further investigation.

Niles state police reported that Purucker was injured about 1:45 p.m. Sunday when his auto went out of control on Redfield road near Ironwood drive in Milton township of Cass county. Troopers said the vehicle struck a tree. Purucker was reported to have received a broken right arm and lacerations. Officers said he was cited for careless driving.

SAVE ON TAXES - 6

Commuting, Moving Expenses

If you are among the millions who have to drive a car to work in order to carry along heavy or bulky tools or equipment, court decisions are shedding increasing light for you on how much of your driving expenses you can deduct.

A general tax rule is that you cannot deduct commuting expenses — but there are exceptions to this rule. The Treasury itself allows you, an employee, to deduct the cost of your car commuting expenses if you use the car to carry your tools, etc., and if you wouldn't have used the car otherwise.

Some higher courts give the taxpayer an even better break. If you would have used your car to commute even though you did not have to carry heavy tools, etc., the courts have nevertheless let you deduct a portion of your reasonable driving expenses which is allocable to transporting your tools. Last year, the Tax Court answered the question of how to figure the portion of costs allocable to carrying tools in the following situation.

Where an individual carried along a bag of tools weighing 32 pounds and measuring 24" X 18" X 6", the Court arbitrarily decided that he could deduct one-third of his car commuting expenses because that was the portion attributable to carrying the tools. If your tools and equipment are even bulkier or heavier, the Court may possibly allow a deduction for an even higher proportion of your car commuting expenses.

Even if you don't carry any tools or equipment, you may be able to deduct commuting expenses if you have to travel by car to a remote place of work.

The courts have made another exception to the general rule against deducting commuting expenses by allowing deductions for car commuting expenses to remote areas such as a logging area 20 to 40 miles from the nearest town, or a desert that was 46 miles from the nearest habitable area.

Last year, one court allowed a person who had to travel 27 miles from Bingham City, Utah, to his plant, to deduct his commuting expenses. It explained that the plant was in a "remote" area because the nearest possible home site to the plant was a small town of 500 persons 20 miles from the plant and this town had no adequate water or sewage facilities. There also was no public transportation from Bingham City to the plant.

Since many employees travel 25-30 miles each way to work, the key to a possible commuting expense deduction is whether the area in which the place of business is located is isolated enough from other possible residential areas and from public transportation to be "remote." If it is, you might want to deduct your car commuting expenses, although you may have to fight the Treasury in court on the deduction of the huge numbers of employees who shifted to a new job location in 1968, you may find that because of court decision, you owe more tax than you expected. Here's why.

Employers who hire new ones who have to move, often pay all their direct moving expenses to the new location plus reimbursing them for post-arrival meals and temporary lodgings until they can move into a permanent home.

The tax law makes it clear that the employee is not taxable if the employer reimburses him for, or pays the direct expenses. But the Treasury insists that the post-arrival reimbursements are income to the employee. The Tax Court said the Treasury was wrong but an appeals court reversed and supported the Treasury.

It held that reimbursements to you, an employee, for post-arrival moving expenses are in the nature of cash bonuses intended to induce you to make the switch.

And you cannot deduct these actual expenses because they are non-deductible personal expenses.

Tomorrow: Investment expenses, interest.
